Coachella Is Once Again The Highest Grossing Festival In The World

9:00 AM, Friday, 1/05/2018

Coachella Valley Music And Arts Festival -

Music critics can analyze Coachella's lineup and tastemaker status over and over again but one factor that's not up for debate is just how successful the most recent edition was. The Southern California event is once again at the top of Pollstar's newly released Year End Worldwide Festival Grosses chart, with a record-setting gross of $114,593,000.

The Goldenvoice/AEG Live-promoted event has held the No. 1 spot since Pollstar began releasing a festival grosses chart in 2012 as part of our Year End special features – with the exception of 2016, when the festival fell to second place behind Goldenvoice President Paul Tollett's very own Desert Trip.

Comparing the past two years, the 2017 edition (headlined by Radiohead, Lady Gaga and Kendrick Lamar) grossed $20,375,000 more than 2016's event (topped by LCD Soundsystem, Guns N' Roses and Calvin Harris) – an increase of 21.63 percent.

The larger paycheck is thanks to a large jump in capacity. Coachella increased in size from 99,000 per weekend in 2015 and 2016 to 125,000-capacity in 2017, for a total of 250,000 tickets sold over the two weekends – an increase of 26.26 percent. General admission tickets were once again priced at $399 and VIP passes were priced at $899. The festival has consistently sold out since 2010.

Coachella's gross towers above the runner-up on Pollstar's Year End Worldwide Festival Grosses chart, San Francisco's Outside Lands Music & Arts Festival at $27,940,275. Even if Coachella just took place over one weekend, it would still easily be at No. 1 with a gross of $57,296,500.

5 Takeaways From Coachella's 2018 Lineup: Big-Budget Headliners, Absent Bands and More

1/3/2018 by Andrew Unterberger

It's the one thing music fans have to look forward to in the first work/school week of January post-holidays -- the glut of festival lineups revealed for the warmer-weather months ahead. The daddy of 'em all led the way on Tuesday night (Jan. 2) with Coachella's announcement of its 19th roster for this coming Apr. 13-15 and 20-22.

The lineup was met with the traditional mixed response of jubilation, outrage and confusion, as fans tried to make sense of the new festival landscape reflected by music's preeminent three-day destination getaway. Here are Billboard's five biggest takeaways from this year's poster of names (and its infamous font-size hierarchy).

1. Break-the-Bank Headliners. Counting Destiny's Child, this year's three headliners have 18 Hot 100 No. 1 hits between them -- just five fewer than the combined 23 that the 27 headliners at previous Coachellas this decade had at the time of their sets. It'll be very hard to find a festival anywhere on the planet this year that can boast three names as big as The Weeknd, Beyoncé and Eminem at the top of the marquee, and perhaps as a result, it's a pretty big drop-off from there to acts 4-6 on the docket: There aren't the sort of long-established, smaller-fest-headlining vets that you'd normally expect to see in the second line of Coachella per-day lineups.

It's something of a gamble for the festival organizers, who have never invested

By CLTure News

January 3, 2017

Coachella announced their 2017 lineup today. Radiohead, Beyoncé, Kendrick Lamar headline the music trendsetting festival located at the Empire Polo Club in Indio, California co-founded in 1999 by Rick Van Santen and Paul Tollett. Among the other notable acts playing the festival will be the XX, Glass Animals, Travis Scott, Father John Misty, Phantogram, ScHoolboy Q, Future Islands, Gucci Mane, Kaytranada, Bon Iver, and many more.

It's time to roll down your windows, and let the wind blow through your hair as you listen to this year's hottest jams. In a matter of days Coachella will be here, so time to grab your fun flare before it's all sold out. Although the flower child theme of Coachella is always an inspiration, each year the look gets a little bit of an update. Find the look that matches your Coachella inspiration.

90'S GRUNGE – RED, BLACK, & WHITE

The 90's are still alive, as new renditions of the grunge look continue to make an appearance in the fashion scene. Think favorite 90's rock band tee, cut into a crop and paired with high-wasted shorts, and you'll get a taste of some of the Festival selection at Forever 21.

BODYSUITS & FRAYED SHORTS

This year's bodysuits are platinum. Pick between gold, bronze, and silver and add a pair of frayed jean shorts. Complete your look with a see-through lace top and a pair of platform mules, and it's guaranteed people will stop to compliment your style.

BODY GLITTER

2017 is the year for glitter. Get inspired by "Go Get Glitter," a London-based celebrity company that specializes in body and face art. Paint a bodysuit with glitter, or frame your face with bright hued eyeshadow and complementary colored jewels. Finish the look off with some hair glitter from Urban Outfitters.

A little music festival in the California desert known as Coachella concluded its first weekend a few days ago, and amazing images of its three days jam packed with music, art, food, and style have begun to surface.

Coachella is pretty much the official start of the North American festival season, and the festival's fresh, smiling festie faces were out in force to help kick it off. Add to that a major dose of sunshine and toasty temps, pool parties, and easily one of the most anticipated lineups of the year, and we'd say Weekend 1 was a resounding success.

UPDATED: Both weekends of the 2013 Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival are sold out as of Wednesday morning.

Tickets for the first weekend of this year's Coachella festival sold out within 15 minutes after going on sale, and the second weekend sold out by 9:40 a.m. this morning, according to a post on the festival's Facebook page.

Sales for the first weekend yesterday were dogged by technical issues. However, consumers were reportedly still purchasing tickets up to two hours after the website said that they were sold out, due to tickets in shopping carts that were not officially purchased.

Many complaints were filed with Front Gate Tickets, the company in charge of sales for the event. Its Facebook page gave buyers a glint of hope when they posted, "We have tons of people trying to buy guys! Give it a few and keep trying."

PHOTOS: The Scene at Coachella Music Festival 2012

After even more complaints, they posted again: "Oh there are SO many people buying. Hang tight, try again in a minute.... THANKS for all your patience!" Many patrons were still locked out of buying tickets, however, and they have been showing their frustration on the festival's Facebook page.

Why Coachella Sold Out in Less Than a Week

Tickets for this year's festival featuring Kanye West, Arcade Fire and Kings of Leon went in record time

By MATTHEW PERPETUA
JANUARY 27, 2011 4:00 PM ET

This year's Coachella festival has sold out faster than ever before in the 12-year history of the event. Tickets for the festival, which will be held on April 15-17th in Indio, California, were gone entirely yesterday after having gone on sale Friday.

According to concert promoter Paul Tollett, this year's festival sold at a much faster pace than the previous year. Whereas 51,000 tickets to this year's event had been sold by Monday, only 11,000 tickets were sold in the same timeframe in 2010.

Photos: Coachella 2010

To some extent, the success of this year's Coachella can be attributed to a bill that arguably boasts more star power than previous events. Though the 2010 festival included top-selling acts such as Jay-Z and Muse, the other headliners were either side project bands featuring Thom Yorke and Dave Grohl or cult acts such as Pavement, Faith No More and LCD Soundsystem. This year's bill is anchored by top-selling acts Kanye West, Kings of Leon and Arcade Fire, and will also feature performances by established stars the Strokes, Lauryn Hill, PJ Harvey and Brandon Flowers.

Coachella festival gets its acts together

By Bruce Fessier, Special for USA TODAY     Updated 4/19/2011 8:14 AM | Comment 0 | Print | Share

More than 150 indie-rock acts, led by Arcade Fire, Kings of Leon and Kanye West, set the Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival aglow in the desert this weekend, marking the traditional start to the summer concert season.

By Kevin Winter, Getty Images

Arcade Fire, with lead vocalist Win Butler, was a Saturday sensation, performing songs from its Suburbs album along with older anthems.

Main mix-up: Chilean band Los Bunkers, scheduled to open the main stage on Sunday, was a no-show. That made London-born pop singer Eliza Doolittle, wearing a black-and-green headdress and matching green shorts, an early afternoon attention-grabber during her set in the Gobi tent.

Sunday's main stage was later to feature Duran Duran, The Strokes and Kanye West.

Headliner shuffle: Kings of Leon were the Friday headliners, but the powerful electronic group the Chemical Brothers was the night's final act, starting well after midnight because of scheduling delays.

THE COACHELLA MUSIC FESTIVAL SOON TO COME

Kanye West / News Posted Jan 21 2011 by Mike Petryczkowycz

The Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival Line-Up features artist like Kanye West, Tinie Tempah and Much More.

This year's Coachella Festival has again a megastar line-up, with performances by Kanye West, Tinie Tempah, Arcade Fire, Kings of Leon and much more. The three day festival in Indio, California, has been a tremendous music event which has been running for almost 20 years. Organized by Goldenvoice, the event features many types of music and provides big name stars to match.

Being set in the California desert, there is little chance that bad weather will affect the event. Setup around the grounds are comprised of several stages continuously playing live music.

The event will take place from 15th to 17th of April this year. Other musical acts booked to perform include The Strokes, The National, Brandon Flowers, Interpol, Klaxons, Erykah Badu and Mumford & Sons. Patrons can also get a "blast from the past" from Duran Duran, Wire, Big Audio Dynamite and Suede.

R&B superstar, Lauryn Hill, is set to perform. Cult act Elbow, Marina & The Diamonds, Bright Eyes, The Black Keys and many others will cater for all music preferences.

The Coachella Festival is shaping up to again become "the experience" for music fans. It is California's biggest music event, and festival organisers are further developing the site by this year adding a roller skating rink and a free shuttle service to a local Indio grocery store.

Camping is the norm for the event, and three-day passes cost $269. Tickets will be available from January 21.

Festival organisers are very "environmentally conscious", and have factored in numerous carbon friendly initiatives. Carpooling is encouraged, and participants are rewarded with a chance to win a VIP ticket/pass for Life. Also refillable water bottles are filled for free at a number of refill stations inside the festival and within the campgrounds.

Economy Not Slowing Down Coachella (But Tix Still Available)

Where: 81-800 Avenue 51 [map], Indio, CA, United States, 92201

If you thought the economic doldrums meant you'd have more elbow room at this weekend's pricey Coachella Music Festival, think again.

While some smaller music festivals have had to throw in the towel this year, giant events like Coachella appear to be doing just fine, thank you very much. Organizers report the 10th annual desert party is selling "almost neck and neck with last year," and is expected to draw somewhere between 135,000 and 150,000 music lovers.

At the moment, 3-day passes ($269) as well as individual tickets for each day ($99) are all still available. The Killers and The Cure headline with a special appearance by Leonard Cohen and Paul McCartney's first stateside festival concert ever.

Coachella music festival embraces an architectural experiment

February 13, 2009 | 11:00 am

Back in 1983, a not-yet-mellowed Elvis Costello told Musician magazine that "writing about music is like dancing about architecture -- it's a really stupid thing to want to do."

Now, thanks to a class at L.A.'s Southern California Institute of Architecture (Sci-Arc), we're going to see what it's like to attempt architecture about dancing -- and music.

"Rock and Roll Fantasy: Sci-Arc at Coachella" is the name of the course. The object: design and build what the syllabus calls a "temporary spatial installation" for this spring's edition of Southern California's biggest annual pop music do, the Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival at the Empire Polo Grounds in Indio.

The course, which began meeting Jan. 19, calls for students to do background research by studying rock festivals such as Woodstock, Britain's Glastonbury Festival and past runnings of Coachella; they'll also familiarize themselves with event-specific temporary structures built for Burning Man and the Venice Biennale, among others.

Separated into teams, they'll come up with an assortment of proposals, and Goldenvoice Presents, the concert company that produces Coachella, will pick one or two to be built for the festival. Sci-Arc's contribution(s) will remain standing through its April 17-19 run (one hopes), and then be dismantled -- unless Goldenvoice becomes so smitten with what the architecture students have wrought that it remains through the following Electronic music pioneers Kraftwerk play the main stage at the Coachella on Saturday night.

INDIO, California — The desert evening air cooled the hot acts and dense crowds Saturday at the Coachella Valley Music and Arts Festival. According to event promoters, 60,000 people were in attendance — not including the thousands of staff members working behind the scenes. The concert venue stretches across a polo field covering nearly 10 acres with five stages.

A slew of performers ranging from Prince to M.I.A. took the stage Saturday. Wired.com photographed Kraftwerk, Portishead, M.I.A. and Yo! Majesty after the sun went down. More photos after the jump.
